Tools for Telehealth

*Can all be screenshared and remote controlled via Zoom*

Making Music Together Tools

* Chrome Music Lab

- * More than just making a beat or melody. With 14 different programs including a shared piano and multiple beat making programs, the possibilities are endless. Have your student trace their name with the Kandinsky program. Have students practice fractions in the beat marker, and more.

* Incredibox

- * A fun “Music-making video game” that can be used for brain breaks, color identification, following directions and more. Pick a sound for each “singer” in the band for upbeat and energetic beats and tunes.

* Drumbit

- * Another drum kit platform with a simple set up to practice focus of attention, math skills and team-work. Change the sounds, speed, and accents for a variety of uses.

Interactive Teaching Tools

* Google Slides

- * For more than just presentations. Use it as a choice board, interactive teaching tool, as flashcards, or more during Telehealth. You can even plug in audio and videos to your presentations for easy access.

* Zoom Annotations/Whiteboard

- * Keep it simple on the virtual platform and write/draw whatever you need using Zooms own “whiteboard” feature. You can also

* BoomCards

- * Make exciting interactive lessons using drag-and-drop or point-and-click answering for easy access for students

* JamBoard

- * Like all of Googles apps, JamBoard allows not only the presenter to brainstorm, storyboard, or problem solve, but because of features like post-its and drawing, you can invite students to participate like by linking them to the program

Creative Tools

* Picker Wheel

- * A spinning wheel generator where you can design categories, choices, and color themes for students to pick from. Use to decide what comes next or to get creativity flowing

* Rap Lyrics Generator

- * For students working on writing composition, parts of speech, flow of speech and more. You can create creative raps with this fill-in-the-blank Madlib like template site that generates raps for you.

Tablet Apps for Music Therapy in Education

Apps for Music-Making, Teamwork and Creativity

Garage Band - Desktop and iOS compatible

For student groups and individuals, students working on choice making, language skills and math skills alike can use melody and rhythm to develop skills with a bright a colorful visual medium.

Bandlab - Browser, iOS and Androic compatible

A great alternative to GarageBand that allows you to make music, beats, and make music together on a browser platform. You can share using ZOOM and keep students engaged to make music, make choices, count and sing.

Apps for Choice-Making

Tiny Decisions - iOS compatible

Tiny Decisions is a wheel generator that allows students to sing the wheel with user generated categories. We've used this for discussion topics, what activity to do next, or for random choice.

*Picker Wheel- Browser Alternative

Sounding Board -iOS compatible

For students who benefit from visual choice-making, Sound Board works like an AAC device with pictures and text to create a grid of options.

Apps for Practicing Skills

Quizlet - Browser, Android and iOS compatible

Quizlet offers a way to practice information through games and flashcard. With the ability to include pictures and text, you can share via screen share or use in person with students while providing musical prompting or instruction.

Quizizz- Browser, Android and iOS compatible

Similar to Quizlet, Quizizz offers also a more clear sharing platform to set up “quizzes” for practice. With multiple choice and multiple ways to visually present information, it allows you to build entire “lessons” to practice with a student. With screen sharing abilities for zoom and remote control students can practice along with you and a musical prompt to develop sets of skills.

Apps for Reading Comprehension

Libby - Browser, iOS and Android compatible

While stuck at home, it is hard to access resources for students. Libby connects you to your local library database and supplies you thousands of ebooks and audiobooks for free.
